Engaging Effective Leadership

Effective leadership is what every organization needs. But just how does one become an “effective leader”? Moreover, how is effective leadership maintained and sustained in the life of the employees and the organization?

This interactive program will examine:

- What effective leadership is.
- The myths about leadership.
- Qualities of effective leaders.
- How effective leaders communicate and handle conflict.
- How effective leaders operate.

PRESENTER: JOHN L. HARRIS

John is a highly-skilled speaker, experienced keynoter and successful entrepreneur with over 20 years of experience developing, designing and facilitating engaging education programs for organizations across the country. John has trained in a wide variety of settings and always keeps his audiences highly involved.
