The Performance Formula

Have you ever finished a day of work and thought, “Did I do a good job today? Did I perform to the best of my abilities?” Or, as a leader, have you had a team member walk by and you asked yourself, “I wonder if they are doing a good job?” The Ziglar Performance Formula not only enables you to answer these questions, but it also gives you the specific keys you need to know in order to maximize your personal performance and the performance of your team.

Through a mathematical formula we prove that performance is multiplied when each person understands and maximizes their attitude, effort and skill, and we show how a negative attitude has a massive negative impact on performance. If you want to maximize performance, you will benefit from the Ziglar Performance Formula.
